Substance Abuse Policies and Prevention Program

Academic Year 2005-2006

Statement of Purpose

Seattle University's Substance Abuse Policies and Prevention Program communicates a broad commitment to a healthy university community marked by standards that reflect personal accountability and responsibility for the common good; demonstrate regard for the safety, security, and health of others; and maintain the atmosphere needed for study and reflection.

Seattle University recognizes explicitly that students, faculty, and staff are adults, which means that they are expected to obey the laws and take personal responsibility for their conduct. Individuals are accountable for their choices and behavior. The university disclaims any intention to assume duties to protect its students or employees from their own abuse of drugs or alcohol or to protect third persons from the conduct of students.

The purpose of this brochure is to make all members of the Seattle University community aware of the:

- Policies that govern the use of alcohol or illicit drugs by the campus community
- Disciplinary sanctions for failing to adhere to university policies regarding drug or alcohol use
- Local, state, and federal laws governing alcohol and drug use
- Health risks associated with the use of illicit drugs and the abuse of alcohol
- Resources available to students, faculty, and staff who have a concern about their own alcohol or drug use, or concerns about a friend, family member or colleague

We hope the information included in this brochure will help in making informed decisions about the use of alcohol and other drugs. Careful attention to this information will help students, faculty, and staff promote the university's compliance with the Drug-Free Workplace Act of 1988 and the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act of 1989.

I. Policies Regarding Drug or Alcohol Use by the Campus Community

A. Policy Regarding Drug or Alcohol Use by Employees

Seattle University employees have the responsibility to perform their jobs in a safe, conscientious, and lawful manner consistent with the university's mission. It is the policy of Seattle University to maintain an illicit drug-free work environment. While at work or when acting on behalf of the university, the university expects employees to be free from the effects of illicit drugs. University policy also prohibits employees from consuming alcohol on campus except for sponsored events. Intoxication is a violation of university policy. Accordingly, in connection with all workplace or university-related activities, the following rules apply:

Drugs

1. The manufacture, sale, possession, distribution, dispensing or use by an employee of a controlled substance or drug not medically authorized is strictly prohibited.
2. The use by an employee of a controlled substance (e.g., prescription medication) that affects job performance or poses a hazard to the safety and welfare of the employee or others is strictly prohibited.
3. The Drug-Free Workplace Act requires an employee who is convicted of any workplace-related criminal drug violation to report the conviction to the Office of Human Resources within five (5) days after the conviction. Grantees, whether the university or the individual, must report in writing to the contracting or granting agency within 10 calendar days of receiving notice of the conviction.

Alcohol

1. Being intoxicated or engaging in the manufacture, sale, transfer or distribution of alcohol by any employee while conducting university business, participating in university activities on or off university premises is prohibited. The consumption of alcohol is also prohibited except where a legal permit or advance consent from the university has been obtained.

2. Violations of the policies regarding drug or alcohol use by employees will result in disciplinary action up to and including immediate termination of employment. In addition, the university has the right to notify local, state or federal legal authorities of suspected illegal activity relating to drugs or alcohol. Employees may observe or have knowledge that another employee is impaired by drugs or alcohol while at work or while participating in university activities. The university encourages those employees to report the situation to the appropriate supervisor.

In some instances, substance abuse may be considered a disability covered by federal, state, and local laws. Seattle University complies with the Americans with Disabilities Act, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, and applicable state and local laws providing for nondiscrimination in employment involving qualified individuals with disabilities. The university also provides reasonable accommodation for individuals with disabilities. Any employee who suspects he or she may have a drug or alcohol abuse problem is encouraged to seek assistance through the employee's own efforts before the problem affects the employee's employment status. The university provides an Employee Assistance Program to assist employees who seek help.

To comply with the federal Drug-Free Workplace Act of 1988, and the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act Amendments of 1989, the university's Human Resources Office maintains a list of agencies that provide rehabilitative and counseling services. Additionally, the university pays in full for an independent, confidential Employee Assistance Program. Contact information for campus and community services is provided in Section III of this brochure.

B. Policy On Drug or Alcohol Use by Students

Seattle University prohibits the illegal and irresponsible use of alcohol and other drugs by students. Students at Seattle University have the responsibility to conduct themselves in a lawful and appropriate manner consistent with the mission of the university. Every student should know the risks associated with the use and abuse of alcohol and other drugs and should assist the university in creating an environment that promotes health-enhancing attitudes and activities. The misuse of alcohol and other drugs subverts the university's ability to achieve its central mission: the academic and social development of its students.

Drugs

1. The manufacture, sale, possession, distribution, dispensing or use by a student of a controlled or illegal substance not medically authorized is strictly prohibited.
2. The manufacture, sale, possession, distribution or dispensing by a student of drug paraphernalia is strictly prohibited.

Alcohol

1. The possession, sale, distribution, and consumption of alcoholic beverages on the Seattle University campus or in connection with university-sponsored or related events is permitted only within the limits prescribed by Washington state and federal laws, and in accordance with any regulations that may be established by the university. In particular, please see the Residence Life Handbook, the Code of Student Conduct, and the Human Resources Manual.
2. It is illegal in the State of Washington for anyone under the age of 21 to possess, purchase, distribute, consume or acquire alcoholic beverages.
3. The sale, possession, distribution, manufacture or consumption of alcoholic beverages at any university-sponsored event is strictly prohibited except as permitted by the Campus Policy for Alcohol Use at Events (See Section I.C).
4. Students are prohibited from appearing in any public place manifestly under the influence of alcohol. The university will not permit the possession, use, or presence of alcohol to interfere with the operations of university housing, with co-curricular activities, with campus safety or security, or with the management of classrooms and academic courses.
5. Alcoholic beverages must not be brought into or consumed within university housing, except by those who are of legal age and under limited circumstances defined by Housing and Residence Life.
6. Except as permitted by the Campus Policy for Alcohol Use at Events, open containers of alcohol are prohibited in all public areas of the Seattle University campus. This includes any holder or receptacle of alcohol where the seal has been broken and/or holders that allow unobstructed, unrestricted or otherwise open access to alcohol. This includes, but is not limited to cans, cups, bottles, kegs, and flasks.

7. The possession, use, sale, furnishing or manufacture of false identification by students in order to obtain alcoholic beverages is prohibited by Seattle University and state law.
8. Aiding or abetting an underage person in the purchase or consumption of alcohol is prohibited.

The university will not excuse acts of misconduct committed by students whose judgment is impaired due to substance abuse. Students are expected to assume responsibility for their own behavior and must understand that being under the influence of drugs or alcohol in no way lessens their accountability to the university community. Violations of the law or university rules or policies relating to drug or alcohol use will result in disciplinary sanctions up to and including dismissal as described in the Code of Student Conduct. In general, students will be disciplined if their use of alcohol or drugs is illegal or threatens to create public disorder, public disturbances, danger to themselves or others or property damage. In addition, the university has the right to refer suspected unlawful drug or alcohol-related incidents to appropriate federal, state or local legal authorities.

C. Campus Policy for Alcohol Use at Events

To serve or sell alcohol on campus, a permission letter must first be obtained from Conference and Event Services ("CES"). The event sponsor must complete an Alcohol Request Form and submit it to the CES Office located in the Student Center Pavilion. Once completed, the form will be evaluated to determine the number of alcohol servers and security staff required for the event. If CES grants permission for the servicing of alcoholic beverages, the event's sponsor must take the permission letter to a Washington State liquor store and purchase a Washington State Banquet Permit. If CES grants permission for the selling of alcoholic beverages, the event's sponsor must apply to the Washington State Liquor Control Board ("WSLCB") for a Special Occasion License at least 30 days prior to the event date. The permit/license must be posted during the event near the alcohol service area. The event sponsor is responsible, along with individuals directed to serve the alcohol, for compliance with all applicable laws (including the acquisition of all required permits), ordinances, and university policies pertaining to the use, sale, furnishing or possession of alcohol.

Alcohol may not be served to any person under the age of 21. A separate alcohol serving area may be required at events where persons under 21 will be present. The event's sponsor will also be required to devise a system by which picture identification will be checked to verify legal age.

Alcohol must be served and monitored and may not be left unattended so as to allow free access. All service of alcohol to guests must stop 30 minutes prior to the ending time of the event. No alcoholic beverages may be consumed in public areas or on university property without the university's prior written approval. In addition, no open containers of alcohol are permitted on university property at any time, except within the area covered by a valid liquor permit. Non-alcoholic beverages and food must be available and featured prominently at the event. Name brand beverages, high protein and low salt foods are encouraged.

No event is permitted to include any form of "drinking contest" in its theme, activities or promotion. Alcohol may not be used as an inducement to participate in a campus event.

Event sponsors (persons who sign for the banquet permit/special occasion license) and the individuals directed to serve the alcohol are responsible and obligated to refuse alcohol to anyone whom they believe has had too much to drink. The person named on the permit/license can and will be held responsible for all alcohol-related incidents.

"BYOB" events, kegs, or hard liquor of any kind are not permitted in university facilities or anywhere on campus. The university reserves the right to deny or limit the consumption of alcoholic beverages on the campus. For events where alcohol is served, the event sponsor is required to hire, at its own expense, and use alcohol servers who are employees of the university's food services vendor.

For additional information, contact Conference and Event Services at (206) 296-5620.

II. Health Risks of Alcohol and Other Drug Use

Alcohol and illicit drug use can pose many health risks to students, faculty and staff. Such use may result in impaired judgment and coordination; physical and psychological dependence; damage to vital organs such as the heart, stomach, liver and brain; inability to learn and remember information; psychosis and severe anxiety; unwanted or unprotected sex resulting in pregnancy and sexually transmitted diseases including HIV and AIDS; and injury and death. Negative consequences of alcohol and other drug use can be immediate.

Substance abuse by family members and friends is also of concern to students. Patterns of risk-taking behavior and dependency not only interfere in the lives of these abusers, but can also have a negative impact on students' academic work, emotional well-being, and adjustment to college. Students, faculty and staff concerned with their own health or that of a friend should consult a physician, a mental health professional, or one of the other resources listed in the following section for more information and assistance.

III. Resources for Education and Treatment

A. Campus Services for Students

1. Consultation for problems related to alcohol and other drug use is provided by the Student Health Center and the Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS). Students who believe they have a problem or who have a concern about another person, are encouraged to seek assistance.

2. Staff of the Student Health Center and staff of CAPS are available for consultation and coordination, to identify resources both on and off campus, and to monitor and support progress in addressing concerns. Wherever possible and with permission, a plan to address problems may include the involvement of other important support systems such as Residence Life and Housing, the Learning Center and Athletics.
3. If screening indicates a problem requiring more focused treatment, individuals will be referred to appropriate community resources. CAPS and the Student Health Center keep a list of community agencies meeting a range of needs and financial capabilities. Individuals are responsible for costs incurred in off-campus services.

B. Campus Services for Faculty and Staff

Faculty and staff who suspect they may have a drug or alcohol abuse problem are encouraged to seek assistance through their own efforts before the problem affects their employment status. To comply with the federal Drug-Free Workplace Act of 1988 and the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act Amendments of 1989, the university's Human Resources Office maintains a list of agencies that provide rehabilitative and counseling services. The current list of rehabilitative and counseling services are included in Section III, C. Additionally, the university pays in full for an independent, confidential Employee Assistance Program.

C. Community Services

A variety of community organizations in the greater Seattle area can be resources for Seattle University students, faculty and staff. We have divided them into three categories for ease of reference: 24-hour emergency numbers; self-help groups; and alcohol and drug treatment programs. Resources are also listed on the Student Health Center web site at www.seattleu.edu/student/health. These resources have not been screened by Seattle University and therefore no specific endorsement or recommendations can be made to any one program.
